

Decoration becomes an art piece

2009-07-02 11:30

Designers Matteo Thun and Antonio Rodríguez have created a new rug named Lace.

Lace is designed for Il Piccolo, an Italian company born as a family business with tapestry at the core.

It is today one of the main Italian companies in the design and refurbishment of interiors. The company has been working with architects and international designers in order to develop the rug project that is not only seen anymore as decoration but as a fine piece of art.
